SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

This collection provides documentation on the religious practices and beliefs of David and Ida Eisenhower, the parents of Dwight D. Eisenhower. The records indicate that Ida Eisenhower was a regular and faithful participant in the activities of the Abilene Ecclesia of the International Bible Students Association (later Jehovah's Witnesses) from 1920 to 1937. There is only one entry in the minutes of the Abilene congregation for this period that mentions D. J. Eisenhower and that is in December 1921.

This particular aspect of the life of David and Ida Eisenhower has provoked considerable speculation, rumor, and conflicting accounts in the past. The opening of these new materials should shed some light on the subject and provide a better understanding of the religious affiliation of Dwight D. Eisenhower's parents. There are no closed or restricted materials in this collection.
