The papers of Robert E. Lee, Commissioner, Federal Communications Commission, were deposited in the Eisenhower Library in 1998 by his widow, Mrs. Rose Lee.

Linear feet shelf space occupied: 6.3
Approximate number of pages: 6,500
Approximate number of items: 2,000

In October 2000 Mrs. Lee executed an instrument of gift for these papers.

By agreement with the donor the following classes of documents will be withheld from research use:

1. Papers and other historical materials the disclosure of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy of a living person.

2. Papers and other historical materials that are specifically authorized under criteria established by statute or executive order to be kept secret in the interest of national defense or foreign policy, and are in fact properly classified pursuant to such statute or executive order.
The Robert E. Lee Papers span the period of 1947 to 1993 with the bulk concentrated between 1953 and 1981 while he served as commissioner on the Federal Communications Commission. The papers contain a small quantity of correspondence, plus considerable speeches, articles, and subject files. The papers are divided into three series: a correspondence series, a subject series, and a speech series. Folder titles within the first two series are in alphabetical order and the speech files in the third series are in chronological order. The actual documents within all of the folders are in reverse chronological order.

The small Correspondence Series includes correspondence with numerous members of Congress, several U.S. Presidents, and a variety of other individuals. His personal correspondence covers such subjects as his nomination to the FCC, FCC rules, the “fairness doctrine,” renewal of broadcast licenses, and responsibility of broadcasters to act in the public interest.

The Subject File includes articles by Lee as well as articles and clippings relating to Lee’s career and FCC issues, hearings, rules, decisions, and policies. The Communications Act of 1934, FCC cases, Lee’s work on the Investigative Staff of the House Appropriations Committee, the development of COMSAT, Senator Joseph McCarthy, UHF TV, the Sunshine Act, Radio Marti-Cuba, Lee’s reappointments to the FCC in 1960, 1967, and 1974, Lee’s retirement in 1981, staff memos on FCC matters, legislative oversight of the FCC, FCC rulings re television stations owned by Mrs. Johnson, and the USIA are all topics covered in this series.

The Speech Series contains copies of his speeches from 1954 to 1992 as well as background notes, drafts, statements, correspondence, and articles relating to his speech topics. Some of the topics reviewed in his speeches include functions and problems of the FCC, subscription television, equal time principle in political broadcasts, TV programming, educational television, FM radio, VHF and UHF TV, role of communications in civil defense, allocation of television channels, quiz shows, advertising, all-channel television, “fairness doctrine,” satellites, and data communications. International conferences on telecommunications, amateur radio, spectrum allocations, the ratings system, legislation affecting the FCC, federal regulation of the broadcast industry, and Lee’s experiences on the FCC are additional subjects covered in Lee’s speeches and statements.

The last box of this collection contains Lee’s official certificates of appointment to the FCC signed by Presidents Eisenhower, Johnson, and Nixon as well as some additional awards and certificates. Forty-four photographs have been transferred to the audiovisual department and seven plaques have been transferred to the museum. No materials have been closed under the donor’s deed of gift, and there are no security classified items in this collection.

The Robert E. Lee Papers contain some valuable insights into the work of the Federal Communications Commission during an important era when television was rapidly developing and satellites and computers were first beginning to have an impact on telecommunications and the broadcast industry. The documentation on the FCC in this collection is unique to our holdings and provides an excellent resource for anyone studying the FCC and telecommunications policies in the 1950’s, 60’s, and 70’s. Commissioner Lee played an active role in developing modern telecommunications policy during his twenty-eight year tenure on the FCC. He vigorously promoted the concept of all-channel television receivers and earned the title of “the father of UHF TV.” Further details on his life and career are available in his autobiography, In the Public Interest: The Life of Robert Emmet Lee From the FBI to the FCC by Robert Emmet Lee with John Shosky (a copy is in our Book Collection).
